

HEALTH & SAFETY POLICY

WMR was founded in 2009 with the aim to support the UK's and European metal recycling needs, through continued investment in both infrastructure and its people. WMR has focused on expanding its relationships across the globe, with a particular focus on building relationships with processing facilities in the South Asian market. We are a family run company with an imbedded ethos of fair and transparent business ethics, The Company is now managed by second-generation family members who are committed to the same ethos as the founding members.

WMR purchase approximately over 50,000 metric tonnes of non-ferrous and ferrous scrap metals which are then shipped to processing facilities across the world to be recovered, recycled, and reused contributing to the circular economy and providing numerous grades of new and sustainable raw materials. WMR is focused on delivering services to the metal recycling industry to provide a sustainable cleaner greener world for future generations to come.

We recognise that activities at our customers loading sites such as material handling, processing, and logistics, have risks to the health, safety, and wellbeing of our people, as well as others such as contractors and customers. We commit to setting high standards and have implemented Health & Safety controls which we aim to continually improve Health & Safety by setting objectives and addressing the key areas of risk.

WE KEEP PEOPLE SAFE AND HEALTHY

- Seek to eliminate injuries, work related illnesses and the hazards that cause them.
- Aim for every day to be a day where all colleagues go home safely to their families
- Seek to reduce health and safety related risks, in particular by addressing the risks that could cause serious injury and fatalities in our industry through recognising all safety procedures on customer sites
- Work with our customers, suppliers, and others whose sites we visit to reduce the health and safety related risks which affect them.
- Comply with the law and other requirements to which we subscribe
- Continually improve our process of monitoring and measuring health and safety performance.
